Military Camp, Calgary

Once more the annual military camp has come around and our boys are busy learning how to be good soldiers. There are at present about 1200 men under canvas. The 15th Light Horse are making a good showing. Cayley sent its quota of one lieutenant and five men.

The Camp is situated on the Bow River, about three miles from the centre of the city. The camp grounds are high and dry, but there has been a great lack of drinking water. Up to time of writing there has been little or no sickness, and no serious accidents.

What is needed for next year's camp:—Drinking water on the grounds; Telephone connection with city; A camp nearer street railway, the present one being a good two miles from street cars.

Baseball

Nanton vs. Cayley, on the Cayley diamond on Thursday evening, this being the fourth engagement for our Cayley boys this season. The game started at 8 p.m., and the score stood at the end of the 8th innings 3-7 in Nanton's favor. Our boys were at a great disadvantage, owing to the fact of having to pick three men from the attendance to take the place of their regular pitcher, catcher and centre field. Cayley's regular catcher played with the Nanton team for the first time this season. However, our boys are sports and always fill their engagements with home men. Not so with our neighbors to the south of us, with a town of six times the inhabitants of our village. Faint-hearted as they are, or perhaps fearing defeat in their first engagement, importing their battery; and for fear of failing in this, undertake to win by force of muscular movement. Should our club be invited to play a return game with our Nanton friends we can assure them of placing a team on the field all from our own village. Without reflecting we may say our boys play baseball for pleasure, not for fame, or newspaper gossip.

Meadowbanks

The many friends of Captain Dick in this district regret to hear of his death.

Mr. J. MacKenzie of High River called on Mr. H. Richardson during the past week.

Mrs. G. H. Backus of Stavely spent conference week with her son, Mr. H. Backus.

We are pleased to note that we have several young and growing baseball enthusiasts in the district. They may yet rival Cayley if given time.

The following is the report of Meadowbank S. D. 1397 for May: St. 4—Joanna Monteith, Harry Ward, Edward Bowlen. Sr. 3—Grant Duncan, Mabel Cameron, Daniel Bowlen. Jr. 3—Willie Ward, Arthur Jenkins. Sr. 2—Manilla Sanders, Donald Richardson, Charlie Monteith, Willie Windiate, Ambrose Bowlen, Sam Tritten. Sr. 1—Harold Bishop, Ralph Bishop. Jr. 1—Bertha Monteith, Walter Jenkins, Myrell Sanders. Primer—Keith York.—J. Manser, Teacher.

"You know, Miss Blank," said the proprietor of a railroad station restaurant, "there's a great deal in having your sandwiches look attractive."

"Yes, sir, I know it," replied the girl, "I have done everything I could. I have dusted those sandwiches every morning for the last ten days."

THE CHURCH UNION MOVEMENT

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, meeting in the city of Halifax, last week, adopted the resolution of Principal Patrick, approving of the agreement to form a basis of union between the Presbyterians, the Methodists, and the Congregational Churches, and sending forward the matter to the Presbyteries for their judgment, to be reported upon before May 1st, 1911. The vote which gave approval to the continuance of church negotiations, came after a long and earnest discussion, and stood 184 for 73 against. Those who, both within and without the Presbyterian Church, favor church union will no doubt rejoice at the splendid majority which the proposition received; those who are opposed to it will perhaps find food for satisfaction in the fact the minority vote was so considerable.

The vote was another important step toward the consummation of a great and vital issue in the history of Protestantism in Canada. It is too early yet to say whether or not we are to have, in the near future, a union of these three great bodies. A final decision toward that end would be fraught with many and most important issues; so would a final decision not to continue the negotiations further. Whatever our individual convictions may be, it is true that we have a most important and far-reaching question before us, one that we cannot shirk, but must be faced resolutely and squarely, and as in the sight of God.

The Annual Conferences of the Methodist church, so far as held this year, have not given this matter of church union much serious discussion. Perhaps that was well. The question was up in the Montreal Conference, where it engaged considerable time of the gathering, and was somewhat exhaustively dealt with. The final decision was to lay the matter upon the table. The tentative basis of union, especially in its doctrinal aspects, was somewhat severely criticized, while the proposal, from different points of view, had most able and earnest defence. The whole discussion was satisfactory in this sense, that it revealed a seriousness of thought and feeling touching the matter on the part of the leaders of the church that is altogether satisfactory.

Probably there is a danger, a very real danger, that we drift into something like a spirit and feeling of partizanship touching this matter. It is well to guard ourselves just at that point. The question is not whether our plan or theory or conviction in regard to Union is carried out, but, rather, whether the great Head of the Church is to work through our intelligence and conviction toward the fulfilment of His great and far-reaching plans. Our prayer as a church for the next few months should be that we might be able to allow the Spirit of God Himself to clarify our vision, to take from us any purpose or ideal that is merely selfish, to give us the teachable, the humble, the honest mind, as we face and try to decide upon this great issue.

At a meeting of the ratepayers of Granum last week a resolution was passed to apply for articles of incorporation as a town.

A London physician claims that appendicitis is contagious and points out that the disease has become much more virulent than formerly.

The Crown Lumber Co. vs. G. W. Saulsberry, owner of Fir Grove Farm, came up for trial before Justice Stuart at Calgary last week, and a decision was given against Mr. Saulesberry, who has refused to pay most of the debts entered into by his brother while acting as manager for the farm. This was a case in which the Crown Lumber Company sued G. Saulesberry, the proprietor of a farm and ranch called the Fir Grove, situated about five miles from High River, for $540, for lumber supplied. Judgment was delivered for the plaintiffs with costs.

Too Heavily Loaded

A distressing occurrence took place on Granum railway station one day last week in which Cowan Mill of Calgary, a passenger on the north bound train, lost his leg below the knee. It is said that Mill left the train to get a couple of bottles of beer, and in attempting to board the moving cars with a bottle in each hand he went down between the platform and the wheels. Fortunately he was caught hold of in time or he would have been ground to pieces. Mill's three little children were on the train, whom it is sad to say, lost their mother six months ago.

Whistling in Heaven

You're surprised that I ever should say so,

Just wait till the reason I've given
Why I say I shan't care for the music,
Unless there is whistling in Heaven,
And you'll think it no very great wonder,

Nor so strange, nor so wild a conceit,
That unless there's a boy there a whistling,

Its music will not be complete.

It was late in the autumn of '70,
We had come from our far eastern home,

Just in season to build us a cabin
Ere the cold of the winter should come,

And we lived all the while in our wagon,
That husband was clearing the place
Where the house should stand, and the clearing,
And the building, it took many days.

So that our heads were scarce sheltered
Under its roof when our store
Of provisions was almost exhausted,
And husband must journey for more;
And the nearest place he could get them
Was such a distance away,
That it forced him from home to be absent,

At least a whole night and a day.

You see, we'd two or three neighbors,
And the nearest was more than a mile,

And we hadn't found time yet to know them,

For we had been busy the while.
The man that helped at the raising,
Just staid till the job was well done,
And as soon as his money was paid him,
Had shouldered his axe and had gone.

Well, husband just kissed me and started;

I could scarce suppress a deep groan
At the thought of remaining with baby
So long in the house all alone;

For, my dear, I was childish and timid,
And braver ones might have well feared,

For the wolf was often heard howling,
And savages sometimes appeared.

But I smothered my grief and my terror
Till husband was off on his ride,

Then in my arms I took Josey,
And all day long sat and cried,

As I thought of the long, dreary hours,
When the darkness of night should fall,

And I was so utterly helpless,
With no one in reach of my call.

And when the night came, with its terrors,

To hide every ray of light,
I hung a quilt up by my window,
And almost died with a fright.
I kneeled by the side of the cradle,
Scarcely daring to draw a full breath,
Lest the baby should wake, in its crying,

Should bring us a horrible death.

There I knelt until late in the evening,
And scarcely an inch had I stirred,
When suddenly, far in a distance,
A sound of whistling I heard.
I started up dreadfully frightened,
For fear 'twas an Indian's call,
And then very soon I remembered
The red men ne'er whistles at all.

And when I was sure 'twas a white man,

I thought were he coming for ill,
He'd surely approach with more caution,

And come without warning and still.
Then the sound coming nearer and nearer,

Took the form of a tune light and gay,

And I knew I needn't fear evil
From one who could whistle that way.

Very soon I heard footsteps approaching,

Then came a peculiar thump,
As if some one were heavily striking
An axe in the top of a stump.

And then, in another brief moment,
There came a light tap on the door,
And quickly I undid the fastenings,
And in stepped a boy, and before,

There was either a question or answer,
Or either had time to speak,

I threw my glad arms around him,
And gave him a kiss on each cheek.

Then I started back, scared at my boldness,

And he only smiled at my fright,
As he said, "I'm your neighbor's boy,
Elick,

Come to tarry with you through the night.

We saw your husband go eastward,
And made up our minds where he'd gone,

And I said to the rest of our people,
That woman is there all alone,

And I venture she is awfully lonesome,
And though she may have no great fear,

I think she would feel a bit safer,
If only a boy were but near.

So taking my axe on my shoulder,
For fear that a savage might stray
Across my path and need scalping,
I started right down this way,
And coming in sight of the cabin,
And thinking to save you alarm,
I whistled a tune, just to show you
I didn't intend any harm.

And so here I am, at your service;
But if you don't want me stay,
Why all you need do is to say so,
And should'ring my axe I'll away."
I dropped in a chair and near fainted
Just at thought of his leaving me then,
And his eye gave a knowing bright twinkle,
As he said, "I guess I'll remain."

And then I just sat there and told him
How terribly frightened I'd been,
How his face was to me the most welcome,

Of any I had ever seen;
And then I lay down with the baby,
And slept the blessed night through
For I felt I was safe from all danger
Near so brave a young fellow and true.

So now, my dear friends, do you wonder,

Since such a good reason I've given
Why I say I shan't care for the music
Unless there is whistling in Heaven
Yes, often I've said so in earnest,
And now what I've said I repeat,
That unless there's a boy there a whistling,
Its music will not be complete.
